Automatic approval workflow activation

Expense720 handles invoices, credit notes and employee expenses and can automatically activate approval workflows for fast approval by several management employees.

Capture data with AI

Using AI Capture in Expense720 enables automatic data extraction from invoices, credit notes, and receipts, saving time and reducing errors compared to manual processes.

Store expenses in your own database

Expense720 is built to store data in your own Business Central database. Even if you stop using a payable version of Expense720, you'll still have access to your data.

Built-in Expense Viewer

The built-in expense viewer in Expense720 makes it very convenient for the financial employees to handle large amounts of expenses.

Web-based Approval

The approval process is simplified by sending documents for approval via email, with a direct link to review and approve or reject them online. This saves time and reduces the need for Business Central licenses.

We use Expense720 to digitize all our incoming documents in the company. Previously, this was done manually and analog. Since we started using Expense720, we have experienced fewer errors because the system recognizes and captures document data. Expense720 has contributed to greater overview.
